A concept film for Drop Assassin

Revision 3, 2026-11-13. Unapproved draft.

OPENING CARD (0:00-0:04)

Black #0A0A0C, gold type:

A concept film. App screens are designed for this film. Screens marked Upcoming preview show planned features.

1 INT. ALEX'S APARTMENT - NIGHT 1

Interior, Alex's apartment, night. A desk lamp lights the shelf that returns in every later shot: Harbor Lantern on the left, Redline Racer on the right, and every other box turned away.

Alex sits at the desk with the phone already in his right hand, waiting. He refreshes a blurred feed with nothing legible on it, and drums his left fingers once on the desk.

A notification drops onto the white UI:

Alerts
Thrilljoy Violet Lantern Standard
Now available.

He taps it the instant it lands. A white store page loads, with no store name:

Thrilljoy Violet Lantern Standard
Sold out
Story plate. Not a recorded stock event.

His thumb stops. No clock or timestamp is shown.

ALEX
It just came in.
(beat)
And it's already gone.

He backs out. The home screen shows no Drop Assassin icon.

TRANSITION: He was holding the phone the whole time, so the alert was the slow part. Cut on his thumb moving to search.

2 INT. ALEX'S APARTMENT - NIGHT 2

Same desk, same night. He searches for and picks Drop Assassin. No store page, reviews or other app names appear.

Drop and restock alerts

The switch starts off, and his thumb turns it on. Under it, with the gold chip:

Upcoming preview
Goal: an alert within seconds of a drop or restock.
Design target. Not a measured guarantee.
An alert is not a promise the listing is still there.

ALEX
(half to himself)
Within seconds. That's what I've been looking for.

Button: Continue

TRANSITION: The watch is set, but his collection lives only on the shelf. He reaches for a box he already owns.

3 INT. ALEX'S APARTMENT - NIGHT 3

Same night. His left hand turns the Harbor Lantern box so its barcode faces the phone in his right hand. Both hands show five fingers, and the box edges stay clear of his skin. He is scanning a box he owns, not either Violet Lantern.

Scan a barcode
Hold the code in the frame.

A plain bracket appears on screen. The barcode digits are never shown large or legible. The scan suggests a match, and nothing is added until he confirms it.

Buttons: This is it · Not this one

He checks the box face against the plate and taps This is it.

ALEX
Harbor Lantern. That one I've got.

He puts it back on the left, then scans and confirms Redline Racer the same way. The boxes never touch.

He looks from the screen to the shelf: the same two names.

ALEX
Those two are mine.

TRANSITION: Next he wants to know what the shelf is worth.

4 INT. ALEX'S APARTMENT - NIGHT 4

Same night.

Collection value · Upcoming preview
Sample figures. Not market data.
Resale estimate and retail reference stay in separate columns.
A figure appears only when a source backs it. Unknown stays unknown.

Columns: Item · Resale estimate · Retail reference · Freshness · Source

Rows:

Funko Pop! Redline Racer · Unknown · Unknown · No reading yet · Not enough evidence

Totals:

Total resale estimate · Sample figure · Covers 1 of 2 items
Total retail reference · Sample figure · Covers 1 of 2 items

Footer: A resale estimate is not a retail reference. Neither is a promise of a sale.

"Sample figure" is set as words, with no digits. Neither Violet Lantern has a row, because he owns neither.

ALEX
One backed, one blank. Better than a made-up number.

TRANSITION: He scrolls to the rest of the collection tools.

5 INT. ALEX'S APARTMENT - NIGHT 5

Same night.

Import a collection · Upcoming preview
Bring a collection from a supported app.
Each item is previewed and confirmed before it is added.
No file is selected.

Below the fold, Body Count is unchanged: Thrilljoy Harbor Lantern Standard and Funko Pop! Redline Racer.

ALEX
Good. Later.

He backs out. No other app opens, and no second collection appears.

TRANSITION: The shelf is logged, and what he really wants is the rare one. He opens Hunt.

6 INT. ALEX'S APARTMENT - NIGHT 6

Same night. The Harbor Lantern box stays sharp at frame left, out of his hands.

He stops on the third card.

ALEX
Somebody actually has one.

He opens it:

Thrilljoy Violet Lantern Chase
Owned by Jordan Hale. Not owned by Alex Rivera.
Condition note from Jordan: Sealed box.
Drop Assassin has not verified this item.
No contact details on this listing.
Button: Send an offer
Concept sequence. Not a shipped screen.

TRANSITION: He can ask Jordan, but he cannot pay inside the app. Cut on his thumb over Send an offer.

7 INT. ALEX'S APARTMENT - NIGHT 7

Same night. The concept caption stays under every plate in this scene, including Jordan's insert.

Alex's phone:

Arrange the exchange between yourselves.
Drop Assassin does not take payment, hold the item, or ship it.

ALEX
(a small breath)
Okay. Jordan.

The shelf is unchanged. Nothing has changed hands.

TRANSITION: The chase is now between Alex and Jordan. The drop he missed is still on his Intel watch.

DISSOLVE TO:

8 INT. ALEX'S APARTMENT - NEXT EVENING 8

A 12-frame dissolve to a typeset card reading "The next evening." Same apartment, hoodie, face and shelf.

Alex is at the desk, mid-bite of dinner, with the phone face-up beside the plate. It lights up, and he picks it up in his right hand.

Intel
Restock alert

Button: Add to cart
Story plate. Not a recorded stock event.

He taps Add to cart:

He breathes out and smiles. Checkout happens at the store, off screen, and the shelf stays the same.

ALEX
Still there this time.

He sets the phone down. With his left hand he props the printed card in front of the shelf, clear of both boxes:

Violet Lantern Chase · Jordan
